What does a sold-out pottery class have to do with the future of a cheese manufacturing business? More than you might think.

My career has taken me from the early days of the internet to the dairy farm and nearly two decades of building an award-winning artisan cheese company. Along the way, I've landed major grocery accounts, pursued opportunities that didn't work out and discovered some of my best business ideas in unexpected places.

Times change. Customers change. Technology changes. Yet it's easy to get caught up in doing things the way we've always done them. Drawing on three decades of business experience, I bring humor, candid stories and thought-provoking observations to the stage, challenging audiences to rethink familiar assumptions, embrace change and recognize new possibilities.

Audiences leave with:

- A fresh perspective on hard work, growth and success
- A greater awareness of overlooked opportunities
- Encouragement to challenge conventional thinking
- Renewed enthusiasm for what comes next

PERFECT FOR

Agricultural and agribusiness conferences, dairy and food industry organizations, agricultural lenders and cooperatives, business associations, leadership conferences and annual meetings seeking an entertaining, thought-provoking keynote.
